CREATORS. In Howard de Walden, Eng. 1907 by writ.
In Seaford, UK 1906 — Lord Thos. Howard, K.G., son of the 4th Duke of Norfolk, was created Bn. Howard de Walden and six years later Earl of Suffolk. He is stated to have been usually instrumental in discovering the Gunpowder Plot. On the death of the 3rd Earl that title went to a brother, but the Barony, being a creation by writ, passed to abeyance between two daughters, and so continued from 1889 to 1894, shortly after which it devolved upon the 4th Earl, or Desford, as 5th Bn.
On the death of this nobleman in 1903 — his eldest son as well as the daughter and sole child of that son being both deceased — the Barony passed to the son or that daughter, who had married Chas. Rose Ellis, 1st Bn.
St. Vincent, but the Earlston went to the Earl's son, subsequently created 1st Marq. of Bristol. The 4th Bn.
Howard, a Field Marshal in the Army (successor to the 3rd Earl of Suffolk), was created Bn. Lynbrooke, but on his death without issue that title parted off as a separate Peerage. The 5th Bn. was Minister at Stockholm, Lisbon, and Brussels. The family name has been successively Howard, Whitwell, Gifford, Hervey, and Ellis.

HOWTH EARLDOM (Irel 1767), extinct 1909 on death of 4th Earl—surname St Lawrence

* In its original form this was a very ancient Peerage the Irish Barony dating from about 1430, though the Earldom with the St Lawrence Vicinity began only in 1767, still later a UK Barony of Howth was conferred on the late Earl in 1882. We learn of the origin of the line that Sir Amicus Tristram, who, together with his brother-in-law Sir Jno de Courcy, had gained a victory over the Irish, was in 1177 awarded the lands and Barony of Howth, but was afterwards slain with his entire force. The sword with which he fought is still preserved at Howth Castle. The 14th and 15th Bns by tenure were each appointed Lord Chancellor of Ireland, the one in 1483 and the other in 1599. The 16th Bn was known as "The Blind Lord." The 17th Bn was created Earl and Viscount

B of Huntingdon, Eng 1899 for Bn Hastings of the 14th E, but that title is now merged in the Barony of Londonderry, it is quite distinct from the still existing and even older Barony of Hastings. "Vise Hastings" is still used as the courtesy title of an old son. The 1st Bn was Sir Wm de Hastings, made a K.G., Lord Chamberlain, Master of the Mint, &c. to Edward IV, but afterwards beheaded by Richard III. The 3rd Baron was made an Earl by Henry VIII, w/om he had accompanied on a French campaign. The said Earl's youngest daughter Lady Mary Hastings, was wooed by proxy for the Emperor of Russia, but the marriage never took place. The wife of the 9th Earl was the Countess so well known as the foundress of a nonconformist body. The 10th Earl died childless in 1789 when the Baronies of Hastings, Botreaux, &c., went to his sister the Ctes of Mount, and from her to the Londonderry Earlom

CREATIONS. Scott B of Huntly, 1445 confirmed 1450, M of Huntly and 1st Marq, 1590, E of Aboyne and 1st Gordon of Strathavon and Glenlivet, 1660

UK Ba. Meldrum, xrs.—Alex Seton, who married the heiress of the Gordon house, was made a Lord of Parliament as Ld Gordon in or about 1437, and his son of the same name, with his brothers, reverted to the ancestral name of Gordon; was created Earl of Huntly in 1445, but the legal settlement was not effected till 1490 and is reckoned from George, son of the latter, called Earl (the Gordon Lordship being wholly dropped). The 6th of this line obtained the Marquessate. The Aboyns Earl, dom, with the reversion title of Ld Gordon was conferred upon the 4th son of the 2nd Marquess, ancestor of the present Peer, while the UK Barony of Meldrum fell to the lot of the 5th Marquess. There was formerly a Dukedom of Gordon attached to this line (Scot 1884, 1896), it was given to the 4th Marq and it continued till the death of the 6th, being eventually reversioned in 1896 and conferred upon the Duke of Richmond. The said Marq, who was beheaded for his zeal for the Royal cause had been created Visc Aboyns, with remainder to his son and son, at whose death unmarried that title expired. A Lordship of Aboyns, together with the title Visc Melgum, was conferred upon a brother of the said Marq, but these titles came to an end through the death of their holder in the burning of Kendraght Tower.

Obituary: UK A Bt star, Bn Hylton, 1866—The title of Bn was conferred upon Capt the Rt Hon Sir Wm G. Hylton Jolliffe, 1st Bt, M.P. for Petersfield, representative (as senior co-hair) of an ancient line which began with Robert de Hylton, first summoned by writ in 1205, but at whose death the title fell into abeyance. Long previous even to this however, and before the process of creation by writ had commenced, there were Barons Hylton of Hylton Castle, Co Durham, whose title was held either by tenure or else by courtesy as "Barons of the Bishopric," described in Burke's "Extinct Peerages" as "sitting with a sort of provincial peerage in the Great Council of their ecclesiastical Palatine." The use of this title was continued up to the death in 1762 of John Hylton, M.P. for Dartmouth. Another Hylton Barony, apparently an offshoot of the preceding, was conferred upon Alexander de Hylton in 1332, but his daughter married Roger Widdington, one of whose descendants was made Bn Widdington so that this Hylton Barony became amalgamated with his own, and an attendant of the 4th Bn W in 1716 involved the extinction of this Hylton Barony. See note under "Jolliffe" as to the correct family name.

CREATION. 1st Bn. of Kingsale and Bn. of Ringrose 1772 by tenure, stated to have been confirmed by patent 1797—Sir John de Courcy, an English Knight, the famous founder of the family, is celebrated for having in conjunction with his brother-in-law Sir Edmund Tristram (who obtained the tenure Barony of Howth), effected the conquest of Ulster, and again, after having given offence to King John, as having acted as English champion in a single combat with the champion of France (who how ever did without striking a blow), thus regaining his sovereign's favour. The King, we are told, in Burke had actually imprisoned him for a year, but upon receipt of the challenge from France and finding no one else ready to accept it Sir John was liberated for the purpose with the above result of his antagonist being seized with panic and taking to flight. The two monarchs fraternized over this event and joined in desiring to see an exhibition of Sir John's strength, upon which he clef a massive helmet in twain at a single blow. This exploit so delighted his master that he asked him to choose whatever he should give him, whereupon the Knight replied that he had estates and titles enough, and would ask the privilege, for himself and all successors, or remaining covered in the royal presence. He died in 1220, apparently without issue, but soon after his death the Barons of Kingsale and Ringrose are stated to have been granted to his kinsman Miles de Courcy. The title of Earl of Ulster (q v) appears never to have been held by this line

DEFINITION 1st Kinloss, Scot 1800 (see "Buckingham Dukedom")—Sir Edw Bruce (M), who was twice Scotch Ambassador to England, was 1st 1st Kinloss, the 3rd Ed being made Earl of Elgin, and the 4th, Earl of Ailesbury, whilst the 7th, by a sluffing of the line, was the 3rd Duke of Chandos All these and other titles have either lapsed or separated off, leaving this Kinloss Barony wholly to itself The present Buss is called by some authorities the 8th in line, and correctly as far as assumption of the title denotes On the death of the 6th Bt (who was also 4th Earl of Elgin) the succession devolved upon the 3rd Duke of Chandos (last of the line extant 1890), who never assumed the title, nor did his daughter and heiress, who married the 2nd Duke of Buckingham and Chandos of the line created 1828, nor again their son the 2nd Duke (to whom the succession de jure passed from his mother), so that the 3rd Duke had in 1868 to substantiate his claim to the Barony before the House of Lords

CREATIONS Scott Lt. Falconer, 1847, E. of Kintore and Lt. Keith of Inverurie, 1777, with succession to heirs female in default of male (U.K.) Scott Kintore, 1881 "Lord Inverurie" is the courtesy title of the heir when a birth son—Sir Wm Keith was created Earl Marischal of Scotland about 1850, and thus honour passed by hereditary descent like that of Earl Marischal in England. The 3rd son of the 5th Earl Marischal the Hon. Sir John Keith, was in 1866 made hereditary Knight Marischal of Scotland in recognition of his having concealed and so preserved the Scottish regalia during the Civil War, and in 1877 the above Earl Marischal and Lordship was added. The Earl, however, joined in the rebellion of 1848 for which he was deprived of the Knight Marischalship, though of that only. But his relative the 10th Earl Marischal who had participated in the same rebellion, was attainted, so that on coming to succeed in 1871 in the Peerage title he was disqualified and they remained suspended till his death. A daughter of the above Earl, however, had married the 5th Lt. Falconer (a title originally conferred upon a son of Sir Alex. Falconer) and their grandson Anthony Adrian, 8th Lt. now became 9th Earl of Kintore. So the matter is stated in "Burke" but the present Earl regards the predecessor of this last as an actual holder of the title, and thus considers himself the 10th Earl. The U.K. Barony was granted to the Earl ordinarily accounted the 7th

Scot Bn Naurns, 1868, restored 1884 (the Barony of Keith, once attached to this, has been extinct from 1867). Gt Br Ld Wycombe, Bn of Chipping Wycombe, 1796, M. of Landsowne, E of Wycombe, and Vice Calne and Calston, 1794. One of the three triple Peerages (Laxnaw p 42). Under that of Ireland, which is much the earliest, we find Thos Fitzmaurice, grandson of a sister of Stangdown, being made 1st Ld of Kerry and Laxnaw, this 1st Lord obtaining the Barlton with its accompanying Viscounty. The second son of the latter was created Vice Fitzmaurice and Bn Dunkeron, shortly after wards Earl of Shelburne, and still later Bn Wycombe, the Peerage of St Britain. His son, the 2nd Earl of Shelburne, who was a General in the Army, Secretary for Foreign Affairs, and eventually Prime Minister, obtained the Marquessate with the associated British titles. The 3rd Marq was Chancellor of the Exchequer and Lord President of the Council, afterwards till 1828 a Cabinet Minister without portfolio. The 4th Marq, Bn Wycombe, as stated in the text, has only come to this house through the marriage of the present Peer's father (4th Marq, K.G., Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs) with the late Baroness. This last Peerage was originally conferred upon Robt Naurns, an advocate, who had been imprisoned ten years for fidelity to the house of Stuart, but whose successor, by remaining steadfast to that line and refusing allegiance to William III, forfeited the title, which was only restored in 1724. A great granddaughter of the 2nd Bn married the only Vis Keble, and their daughter in 1829 succeeded as Bess Naurns and Keith on the death of the 6th Bn. But the K title expired at her own death, being limited to herself and heirs male. The surname Pety, now practically disused, is derived from Sir Wm Pety, father of the 1st Earl of Kerry's wife, who was disinherited by accomplishing (1654) the survey of a large portion of Ireland, the name was first assumed by his grandson, the above 1st Earl of Shelburne.

LAURIE, Baronet of an older Maxwellton line (Scot. 1869), deceased retd. 1848, but now assumed as retd. Bt. by Sir Jno Alfred Laurie (of Shelton, Surrey). He states that he is descended from a 3rd son of the 1st Bt., but the pedigree at the College of Arms do not tally with his assertion, and no real authority accords any sanction to the claim.

The baronetcy itself, however, was in its past a thoroughly genuine one, having lasted from 1565 up till the death of Adm. Sir Robert Laurie, the 5th in its line, in 1848. It includes, moreover, an episode which will probably interest many, and for an account of which we are indebted to the courtesy of the Rev. Sir Emilius Laurie above. We had enquired of him whether "Annie Laurie," so renowned in song, was a veritable historical personage, and the answer came that the said lady was the actual daughter of the 1st Baronet, and born in 1824. The words of the song were composed by a youth named Douglas of England, and the music more than a century afterwards by Lady Jno Spotswood, but, alas! the "promise true" proved a delusion, as too often the case with young ladies distinguished by unusual beauty of person (swand necks and such-like little playfulnesses of nature), so she threw poor Douglas over, and married in his place Alexander Ferguson of Crugdarroch. The portraits of both herself and her husband, it is added, are in the keeping of the Baronet who still holds possession where "Maxwellton brasses are bonnie."

CREATIONS Eng A Bt 1800, Viscount and Bn Osborne, 1873, B of Danby, 1874, M of Carmarthen, 1889, D of Leeds, 1894. U.K. Bn Godolphin, 1893. Scot. Viscount Dunblane, of Dunblane, 1894. Viscount Dunblane, 1894 ("Dunblane" in Scot Roll, and apparently this form or "Dunblane" was the orig)—Sir

Thomas Osborne, and Bt, was successively awarded the whole of the Peerage titles given under "England," and that of Viscount Dunblane in Scotland. His son, the 2nd Duke, long before accession, obtained the other Scottish title, viz. the Godolphin Barony being granted to the 2nd and son of the 5th Duke whose son eventually succeeded as the 8th. A question has been raised of late as to the origin of the title Leeds, and it has even been distinctly assigned to County Kent. It is true that there is a Leeds Castle near Maidstone and that in an early period the Osborne family was located at Ashford some 2½ miles distant in the same county. But at the time of the creation of the Peerage it is abundantly clear that the Northern county had become their place of abode. The 1st Bt, who already in 1800 was a Knight of Kiverton, near Sheffield, was Vice President of the Council of the North and Lieut General of the Royalist Forces raised there, his successor was created Bn Osborne of Kiverton and Earl of Danby both in Yorks, he was successively High Sheriff and Lord Lieutenant of the entire county and Governor of Hull and owned ground rents in the town of Leeds itself, and it was upon him that the Dukedom was first conferred. Thus as to the Leeds Castle in Kent it passed through the hands of very various owners but not a scrap of evidence exists of the family in question having resided there for a day. It is now in the hands of the Wykeham Martin family, a recent member of which produced an elaborate and costly history of it in which work a son of his has informed us the name of Osborne does not occur in fact, the only feeble attempt we have met with at tracing a connection consists in the allegation that the ducal family is descended from a granddaughter of St. Warham St. Legar, who had once been owner of the castle. We believe the notion to have been first started by a former Duchess who had previously been a domestic servant in the family, and it afterwards found promulgation in the wild gossip often contributed to M.P. The estimable Leeds historian Thoreby recounts an interview with the 1st Duke in which the latter stated expressly that he had chosen the title on account of Leeds being 'the most considerable place for trade in the county,' and Sir H. Nicolas says distinctly, "Leeds Co York." Thus, as the present Duke has no means of deciding the matter, the kindest theory may be the words of a leading authority whom we have consulted, be safely dismissed as one of those "cock-and-bull ideas hardly worth seriously confuting."

CREATION E of Leicester and Visc Coke, U.K. 1837 — This Earldom, which first appears in Sir H. Nicolas's pages with the remote date of 1103, has undergone a long succession of extinctions and forfeitures till it has become distinctly a modern line. The most notable among former holders of the title, excepting only Sir Simon de Montfort, was the discarded favourite of Queen Elizabeth a son of the Duke of Northumberland (ie Sir Robert Dudley, K.G.) was the only representative of that creation, and later extinct lines were started in 1568, 1744, and 1878 (for the last of these see under "Townshend, Marq"). An illustrious ancestor of the present Peer is Sir Edward Coke, knighted by James I and appointed Chief Justice of the King's Bench. A descendant, Thos Wm. Coke for many years MP for Norfolk, was the recipient of the present titles. The creation of 1744 was also to a Coke. It has been noticed that from the birth of the 2d Earl in the present line to the death of his late son there occurred the long interval of 237 years (1772-1909), the 2nd Peer having been born when his father was over 70, and himself having reached the age of 95. The Earl was twice married and had eighteen children, the eldest of whom was 49 years older than the youngest who now has a mere 27 years older than himself. The 2nd Earl headed a deputation to George III in favour of recognizing the independence of the American Colonies, and at a later date he delivered a violent attack upon that monarch's memory, thus suffering for a time his own elevation to the Peerage. When at length this elevation did occur he took the title "Leicester of Holkham," on account of the fact that Townshend having been convicted Earl of Leicester, and that title being borne by his supposed heir, who sat as such in the Commons whilst the new Earl sat in the Lords. But an Act of Parliament pronounced that son to be no son, and the Townshend Earldom of Leicester became extinct in 1866. Still, from 1837 up till this last year the two Earldoms of Leicester actually existed side by side.

CREATIONS 1st E of Kildare, 1318, M of Kildare and E of Offaly, 1351, D of Leinster, 1366 Gt Br, 1st Leinster, 1747 U K Bn Kildare, 1870—Gerald Fitzmaurice FitzGerald, the 1st Bn (leisure), was son of Maurice FitzGerald, "patriarch of the Irish Geraldines", a distinguished warrior, who, with the aid of Strongbow and a mere few English troops, defeated the Irish, who under Roderick King of Ireland, had invaded Dublin the latter monarch having previously driven the King or Leinster from his territory, whilst the purpose of Maurice and Strongbow was to reanimate him. The 2nd Bn O'Riagh (leisure again) introduced the Franciscans and Dominicans into Ireland, the 3rd was created Earl of Kildare, and it was in his time that the family coat of arms containing three monkeys was adopted, in consequence, it is said of this Earl, when an infant having been rescued from a fire by a tame ape which tenderly bore him aloft into one of the towers. Several Earls of Kildare have figured in English history. The 7th was Lord Deputy of Ireland and afterwards Lord Chancellor. The 8th, called "Gentle Mor," (the Gerald the Great), was for 33 years Lord Deputy and Lord Justice, and was also a warrior famed for his strength. He was devoted to supporting Lambert Simnel in his claims to the throne, and engaged in the conflict with Henry VII's troops, but he afterwards made his peace with the King, and in the following year evaded and against Perkin Warbeck. The 9th Earl incurred the hatred of Wolsey and was committed to the Tower, where he died from horror at the sentence of execution pronounced against him for the murder of Archbishop Allen, committed by his followers. The 10th Earl his son, in consequence threw off his English allegiance and revolted, but surrendered under promise of pardon, which Henry VIII violated and had him hanged, drawn and quartered. The 11th Earl, then but a boy of twelve, had to flee the country and was housed and brought up at Rome by Cardinal Pole. Edward VI restored him his estates, and Mary his honours. The 12th Earl was constituted Marquess and Duke and awarded also the British Viscounty. The Kildare Barony was created for the heir of the 3rd Duke during the lifetime of his father

CREATIONS Scot Rn Melville, orig 1850, extended remainder under which the title continued 1879, E of Leven and Rn Balgonie, 1849, E of Melville, Viscount Kilmahine, and Rn Rath, Monymusk, and Balwearie, 1860—Sir Robt Melville (Kt), a F O of Scotland and Ambassador to England, the 18th E., was distinguished by his countess endeavour to prevent the shameful accusation of Mary Queen of Scots, which boldness of his caused Elizabeth to threaten his life, but after that arbitrary woman had passed away, King James elevated him to the Peerage as Rn Melville, also appointing him Vice Chancellor and an Extra Lord of Session (as Lt Murdoch-Carmichael). The 4th E. obtained from William III the Earldom of Melville with its accompanying Viscounty and Baronies, though previously he had been involved in a rebellion of 1706-10, and been in consequence attainted. The Earldom of Leven had a good start commencement, having been conferred upon Gen Sir Alex Lesley, a distinguished commander, who having first served under Gustavus Adolphus, afterwards led a Scottish Army of the Covenanters in an invasion of England against Charles I, and had an important share in the victory of Marston Moor but who, upon the treaty with that monarch, so won his favour that he raised him to this Peerage, and obtained his continued services upon the Royalist side. His granddaughter married the 1st Earl of Melville, and thus, on the failure of the direct Leven line, the two Earldoms came to be united. The late 13th Earl was a K G and a Scottish Representative Peer, also Lord High Commissioner to the Church of Scotland from 1861 to 1895. There have been two Countesses in the Leven line, and the present Peer will be reckoned the 14th or 15th, according as these are or are not included in the numbering. Our practice in this work is to count the entire line, male and female alike, but some authorities allow themselves to vary from one plan to the other, doubtless to suit the preference of individual Peers. The late Earl desired us to call him the 13th.

Ld, not Earl—see below), b April 18, 1832;

late Robt Croose, Esq, and widow of Capt.
Edm'd W Barnes Serjt, Kilcomragh Castle, Fifesh, Wormstone House, Craul, same Co

On 17th Scot. Ld Lindsay of the Byres, 1445, E of Lindsay and Ld Parbooth, 1523, Viso of barrock and Ld Kilburne, Kinghorn, and Drumm, 1703—Sir Jno Lindsay (kt.), Justiciary of the Nor burn part of Scotland, was created Ld Lindsay of the Byres, the 10th Ld received the Earldom, and the son of his 2nd son was separately created Viso of barrock the latter a grandson eventually succeeding as 5th Earl of Lindsay. Meantime a complication had set in to this higher title, causing it for some 250 years to be associated with the Earldom of Crawford. The succession to both Earldoms was open to "heirs male general" (Irvine), but upon the 15th Earl of Crawford having no issue, he in 1662 obtained a new charter diverting the descent to the "direct heirs" of his friend and remote kinsman, the 2nd Earl of Crawford, with reversion, upon the failure of such heirs, to the previous line of remainder, i.e. his own collaterals. Thus the 1st Earl of Lindsay took the title of Earl of Crawford Lindsay, and his five next successors continued to hold both titles, but in 1808 the "direct heirs" of the Lindsay line failed, and then, in virtue of the above charter and the regular law for "heirs general," the lines divided, and each went to its own collaterals—the Lindsay Earldom to the 15th Lord Lindsay of the Byres, and that of Crawford to the 6th Earl of Balcanes. It must be observed that the above Earls all long had held the Lordship of the Byres, but that in 1808 a reversion had to be made to a descendant of the 4th Ld, followed in 1899, as demanded by the House of Lords, by another reversion, but only to the descendant of another son of the same Lord. The 4th Earl of Lindsay, son of Crawford, distinguished himself in the wars with the Turks and French, commanding in 1749 the Black Watch, then styled "the gallant band" and Lord Crawford-Lindsay's Highlanders. The name of Balkines was first assumed in 1779 by the grandfather of the 6th Earl de Byres, who, however, never adopted the title, and was known as Sir Henry Lindsay-Balkines, he was created a Baronet in 1866 for his military achievements in Persia, but this honour expired with his son the late Earl

A cousin of his was created Ld. Jedburgh, and another cousin Earl of Anstruther, but the titles all conveyed. The 4th Earl was raised to the Marquessate and his 5th Marq. made a U.K. Baron. The 7th creation seems to have adopted the form "Anstruther", which is the name of one of the family estates, but "Anstruther" is the orthography used in the title of the heir when a firstborn son (compare the above forms "Ld. Newbottle" and "Newbottle Abbey").

CREATON Bn of Louth, Irel 1754—Sir Oliver Plunkett (K.) was created 1st Bn. The 5th in his line was outlawed by the Parliament in 1645 for the support he gave to the Stuart, and as his son and successor continued that support into the reign of James II, the force of the unrevoked outlawry was revived to exclude from Parliament the next (8th) holder of the title, and this was not reversed until 1798 during the tenure of the 12th Baron.

CHARLES 1st Lovat, Scot born 1459 and 1464, U K 1557—Hugh Fraser, one of the hostages for James I of Scotland a ransom when set at liberty in England (1544), was given by that monarch the Barony of Kinnaird which is considered by some, though hardly by Burke, to have constituted him 1st Ld. His grandson of the same name, who married a daughter of Ld. Glams, was created Ld. Lovat, or Ld. Fraser of Lovat. An unhappy episode in the family history was enacted by the 12th Ld and the eldest daughter of the 9th. They eloped together, but the woman, who on her father's death had styled her self Baroness, returned to her mother and married Alex Mackenzie. The Court of Session eventually deprived her of her title and gave it in 1730 to her former lover. He however had in the interim of over 30 years distinguished himself by a further course of violence. He was in 1762 sentenced and sentenced to death for seizing the estates of his intended spouse, the sentence not being carried out he forcibly possessed himself of her own mother and compelled her to marry him, and for this he was outlawed in 1760. His crimes being gradually condoned by time he was, as just stated, at length awarded the Peerage but, taking part in the rebellion of 1745, he was impeached and executed on Tower Hill. After the death of his youngest son (who did not bear the title) the succession passed to a descendant of the 4th, upon whom the U.K. Barony was conferred.

CREATIONS 1st King, Bn of Oakham, St Br 1795,

E of Lovelace and Viso Oakham, U.K. 1838—Sir Thos

Wentworth (K.) was granted the title of 1st Wentworth, which has now become a distinct Peerage, while Sir Peter King, Kt and M., maternal nephew of Jno Locke the philosopher, and who became Lord

Chief Justice of Common Pleas and ultimately Lord

Chancellor, was the 1st Ld King, Bn of Oakham. The 8th of the latter series was made Earl and Viscount.

The 2nd Bn W the last English Governor of Calais, was made a P.O. and a Kt Banneret. The 4th Bn was created Earl of Cleveland, but that title went no farther. Two granddaughters followed as holders of this Barony, and in their line of successors we find the further extinct titles of Viso Wentworth and Bn Lovelace. The Wentworth Barony itself in 1815 fell into abeyance between the deceased Baron's sister

Judith who by marriage had become Lady Milbank and his nephew, Lord Scarsdale, but this condition terminated in 1865 by Anneabella, daughter of the former and then widow of Lord Byron (whose surname was Noel-Byron), being left sole heir. Her only child, the Hon Augusta Ada Noel-Byron, married the above nephew, who was created 1st Earl of Lovelace. The late Earl had thus the high distinction of being a grandson of the post Byron, but as this was upon the maternal side it confers no such relationship upon his half-brother, the present Peer. Lord B's widow, the above well-known Anne Isabella, Lady Byron, on the death of Bn Scarsdale in 1865, became in her own right Baroness Wentworth, until her decease in 1866, when she was succeeded for two years by her grandson. Her daughter the Hon Augusta Ada, the undersigned "Ada" of the post, predicated her mother in 1866, leaving two sons and daughter, so that the Wentworth Barony passed to the elder of these sons, who had married William, 8th Bn King, who became 1st Earl of Lovelace. The elder of the two sons, 1st Bn. Wentworth by descent from his mother, died before his father, hence the younger now became 1st Bn. W. 1st Bn. King, and eventually 1st Earl. The 1st Earl added the name Lord to King, the and in 1865 exchanged the two names for Mubank, but King only is now retained.

MACDONALD, BARON RONALD ARCHIBALD Macdonald, 5th Bn (Irel), a D L for Inverness-shire, formerly Lieut Highland L I Mil son of 4th Bn and bro of 5th, b June 9, 1853, at 1874, mar 1875 Louisa Jane Hamilton, dau of Col Geo W H Ross Seat, Armdale Castle, Broadford, I of Skye, town 178 (Lady M), 20 Chesham Pl, Belgrave Sq, S W

CHRONOLOGY In Macdonald, Irel 1776, 2 Bt Sent 1868—The Celtic ancestors of this line for some 612 years ago bore the title "Lord of the Isles," the last Lord being, also Earl or Ross, but this noblemen was claimed for the son and both his titles were annexed to the British Crown, the Lordship thus coming in 1469 to be a title of the heir to the throne and since the Union to be one of the Scottish titles of the Prince of Wales (the present one is descended from a half brother of that last Lord of the Isles) A Baronetcy commenced a century and a half later and was located at first in the island of Skye, the Pezings adopted the similarly pronounced word Slate, passing it off as a genuinely existing place in the Antrim see page 5 for similar instance, but note that the Earls of Antrim were originally a MacDonall line Sir Alex Macdonald, 5th Bt, was raised to the Irish Baroncy and until 1901 his five successors continued to hold both titles. In that year Sir Alexander W M Bonville Macdonald of Bishops Hall (see below, etc.) bequeathed the legitimacy under Scottish law, of his 9th and father eldest son of the 3rd Bt Macdonald and thus with his right to the Baronetcy The Irish Pezings, however, was unaffected by the legitimization in Scotland of a child born before marriage

MACDONALD OF THE ISLES, Lady This title is sometimes applied to his wife of Bn Macdonald, and we for a time gave it mention under the belief that it implied no more than a useful conventional distinction of that lady from the seven other Ladies Macdonald which the preceding pages contain. It appears however, that the distinction is a matter of keen controversy between the different branches of the Clan Donald, the question being as to which of these has the better right as judged by seniority of descent from the Oultra Lords of the Isles, and the opinion of Gater King of Arns has been obtained to the effect that no person has a right to adopt the title until the matter has been formally settled

Remarks: Eng. 1891 Mar. 1891 and En. Montagu of Kimbolton, 1891, D. of Mar. 1891, 1891, D. of Kimbolton, 1891—Edward Duke of Montagu had been created from the time of Henry II onwards, and there is understood to be a family connection between the aunts of the Duke and the present Prince. The Duke's Viscounty and Earl's rank conferred upon Sir Henry Montagu, 1st P. for the City of London and Lord Chief Justice of the King's Bench, he was afterwards made Lord Privy Seal. The Duke and Earl was a brilliant General on the Parliamentary side and took part in the victory of Marston Moor. Lord Byron, who was his Lord General. The creation of the Duke, however, caused him to abandon that side, and he was subsequently deputed by the Lords to congratulate Charles II. on his resignation. The Duke, who had been Ambassador at Venice, Paris, and Vienna, and had been conspicuous in supporting the cause of Orange against James II., was raised to the Dukedom. The 4th Duke was Governor of Jamaica.

MANSEL, BARONET'S WIDOW Lady M (Julia Vertue, dau of the late Rev Henr, E Lombe), mar 1870 Sir Edwd Berkeley Mansel (d 1908) Res, Old Cotton House, nr Norwich

* * The state of uncertainty in which all three years this Baronet was involved was cleared up in November 1905 by a decision of the Court of Session that the parents of the above Sir Edwd Berkeley M were validly married in Scotland in 1832 and that he was their eldest lawful son. The fact was as follows. In 1832 his parents entered into an irregular marriage in Scottish form, and after a cohabitation extending over several years they were in 1847 married with religious rites. Sir Edward was the eldest son under the former title, but the charge of illegitimacy was advanced against him and a son born under the later condition assumed the title upon the death of the 9th Bt. In 1883 being himself successful unquestioned by the above Courtenay Cecil Mansel, now pasteur but from 1864 to 1903 styled 11th Bt. But both the 10th and 11th generations now appear to have no right to the title, and the latter at once abandoned it on being made aware of the claim of his uncle. This the Court of Session has now definitely confirmed, pointing out that Scottish law recognises as lawful an illegitimate marriage with subsequent cohabitation.

The title of Baron of Mansfield (extinct) was conferred upon a younger son of the 5th Viscount, the Hon. Wm. Murray, a friend of the poet Pope, who subsequently was appointed 1d. Chief Justice of England. He (the 2nd) obtained subsequently two patents of Baron, of which the former assigned the remainder to the wife of his nephew, 7th Viscount Stormont, owing to a mistaken belief that no English Peerage could pass to Scotland. Peer. When the contrary was ascertained the second patent was granted with remainder to the Viscount himself. Thus through the death of the grantee without issue, the Earldom passed to the line of the Viscounts but the Bys layed altogether whilst two distinct Earldoms of Mansfield passed to the above husband and wife, but on the death of the latter they were reunited, the 4th Earl upon the male side being the grandson and nearest heir he succeeded her in 1822, his father in 1849. On the Imperial Roll of Peers the title stands "Earl of Mansfield," not "Mansfield and Mansfield," though the 4th Earl referred to himself by that double title.

 the late Jno. Hamilton, Esq., of Hulton Pk., Monmouthsh. Res. Villa Indiana, Mount Carlo, town

ORIGIN. Scot. E. of Mar (orig. Marr) bef. 1224, but given precedences of 1245 (s. 1) as earliest date for which documentary evidence was produced at the "Decree of Ranking" in 1260. Ed. Erskine 1249 and Ed. Allou (s.
 126) (s. 126) to which see under follo. line—We are underled for the earlier part of the following particulars to the Hon. Ruridhi Erskine's investigations into the early history of this ancient and obscure Peerage, which he has most courteously and at considerable pains contributed for publication. The origin of the house of Mar has been traced back to Coro, son of Lughaidh King of Munster in the era of St. Patrick. Coro, who was banished to Scotland at the instigation of his stepmother, is said to have married Monghthann, daughter of the King of the Picts, and from this marriage the Mar line is regarded as having sprung. The descendants of Coro bore the title of Mormhairt Mharr or Great Stewards of Marr (the form "Mharr" being the genitive of "Murr", and "Mormhairt", in plural
 "Mormhairt", a variant or earlier form of the title usually given to "Mormer". Of these descendants probably the first whose identity is clear was Donnall (Donald), who was slain at Olontart in 1224. But the first to be styled Earl or Comes was Ruaidhri (Rutimund "Rother", but pronounced and often written "Ruar") whose name appears as "Comes" in the charter founding the Abbey of Scone in 1224-25 and in the "Book of Deer" in 1225 though in the latter styled Mormhairt in fact this latter title was very probably still used continuously until the extinction of the Celtic dynasty in the person of the "Maid of Norway" at the close of the 13th century. William, the 5th Earl, was co-Régent of Scotland in 1228, and the contests of this powerful nobleman with Duncan, who declared him illegitimate, add a fresh element of obscurity to the history of this line. William, however, "remained in possession"

Donald, the 9th Earl was Regent of Scotland in 1232.
 Margaret Countess 12th in line married Donald 2nd Earl of Douglas father of the Earl who fell at "Bannockburn". These names thus far accepted by Mr. Fraser is either certain or probable. It is through the element of rivalry exists some doubt in one or two instances may be thus stated: 1. Ruaidhri 3. Gillicoch, 3. Morgand, 4. Malcolm, 5. Duncan, 6. William, 7. Donald, 8. Gartnait, 9. Donald, 10. Thomas, 11. John, 12. James, 13. Alexander, and 14. No. 15 taking the title eris eris eris
 The 14th earl Robert Erskine was a collateral relative who had been created Ed. Erskine, but who was not recognised as Earl by the Crown. His successor was granted the Alton Lordship but formally dispossessed of the Earldom and that title was now merged in the Crown until in 1265 this disposssession was pronounced unjust and the 19th Earl and 5th Lord Erskine was fully recognised as lawful holder of the higher of these dignities.
 The Barons Lordship was a feudal honour stated to have been conferred upon Lady Christian Bruce, sister of King Robert I. and wife of the 8th Earl, but uncertain.
 The above 19th Earl was also the 2nd in what is now declared to be the line of Mar and Kellie which continued for several generations but he was not in the original line without apparently any allusion of their distinctness being made. The Erskines and Alton Lordships had recomposed the leading title and these are now claimed as belonging to the line. The ground of exclusion of the above earl Robert Erskine was the illegitimacy of his husband or the Countess who had preceded him but as his own descent was not from these but from the 8th Earl there was obviously reason enough for a reversal of the decree though under the title had been bestowed upon sons of the earl and 3rd James, and the legitimate successors from the 14th to the 18th were Earls de jure done. The 19th Earl was Lord Treasurer of Scotland, the 20th was Chamberlain, and the 21st Secretary of State but he suffered forfeiture for sharing in the insurrection of 1715. The 21st was in 1722, restored to all the titles (the 25th and 26th being counted in the numbering though legally deprived), and it was on the death of the 26th that the separation of the titles occurred as below.

The two Earldoms, "Mar" and "Mar and Kellie," have much interest in their history as well as they be evident from the summary above. In the 13th century the line of Mar became involved in the proceedings detailed above, but in 1265 after an investigation the title was awarded to its then claimant, but the conditions were stated to be settled by the House of Lords, on reviewing it in 1275 pronounced them to have amounted to a new creation. The succession, however, had for centuries continued as before, and in 1284 the Earldom of Kellie was united with this original Mar Earldom, but on the death of the holder or the joint titles held Earl of Mar without issue in 1286 they again became separated, the title of Kellie going to the next male heir, whilst the original Earldom followed female succession to the present Earl of Mar. Finally, on the conclusion of the above mentioned investigation by the House of Lords it was decided that the Mar Earldom declared to have commenced in 1265 must also pass to the inheritor on the male side, whilst the 1265 Earldom remained as the distinct Peerage of Mar, a special Act being passed in 1286 to place unshakenly the continuity of that ancient Peerage. The course of changes may be thus summed up. Up to 1234 what are now pronounced to have been two Mar Earldoms had from 1235 been held by one and the same Peer, from 1234 to 1286 they remained united and with the authorisation of the Kellie title, from 1286 to 1287 this last title parted off and left the two as before, and since 1287 the Kellie line has been possessed of this and creation of Mar

His successor appears to have had the Alcock Lordship added. The 6th Lord Erskine, a full of London, the 6th Lord Erskine had the Earldom of Mar confirmed to him by charter, and this document was explained above was the origin of the division of the titles it being deduced therefrom that this Peer was constituted recipient of the 2nd Earldom of the new creation whilst he continued to rank as 2nd under the old. The Durlton Erskine and Fentoun Vicery were about the same date conferred upon Sir Thos Durlton, Kt, a grandson of the 5th Lord E, in recognition of his having shared with Sir D and Murray (see "Mansfield") in rescuing King James from the Gowrie conspiracy, and to him also rather later, the Halls Earldom was recorded. On the death of the 10th Earl of this latter line the 9th (6th) Earl of Mar became his successor. The dissolution of his House of Lords in 1893 is thus given. Resolved that Walter Henry, Earl of Kellie, Viscount Fentoun, and Viscount Erskine and Durlton, both made out his claim to the Earldom of Mar created in 1566. MELDEUM, Baron (UK 1815), Impet title of M of Huntly

MELFORD, EARLDOM This title is dormant, but may possibly accrue to Lady (MARIE LOUISE, SUSAN) EDITH GRIS DRUMMOND, 7th in line of Earldom (See), but adopting style of "Lady Edith Drummond," only, she is however Comtesse de Lusson and Baronne de Valrose (France) dau of 14th D of Perth and 6th of Melfort, b April 29, 1854, sue (?) 1902 on death of her father, when the two Earldoms are considered to have divided, unmrrd Res, The Cottage, Kew

CREATIONS Scot Viscount Melfort and Ed Drummond or Gilmour, 1898, D of Melfort, Viscount Perth and Ed Drummond of Kincardine, Castlemaun, and Gilmour, 1898, but stated to have been surrendered to the Crown in the following year and re-conferred, with succession open to females, in 1898 France Comte de Lusson and Du de Valrose, by marriage 1897—These titles were all conferred upon John, son of the 3rd Earl of Perth, but the supposed surrender has introduced a complication. The late Earl of Perth and Melfort left as his only surviving child the above daughter Lady Edith Drummond, and if the fact of the surrender could be proved she would be the unquestioned Countess of Melfort, the Perth Earldom, which is distinctly heritable by males alone, having passed to Viscount Strathallan, who makes no claim to the other Peerage. Lady Edith has written to us to assert that if that surrender could be established she would at once lay claim to the title, but adding that no such substantiation has been found. Thus the original terms of remainder, "to the heirs male of the body of John, Earl of Melfort," are the only ones upon which any present action can be taken, and the claim of Lady Edith is in effect abandoned. James II, when in exile conferred upon the Earl the title of Duke of Melfort, and his son subsequently gave that of Duke of Perth to his brother the 4th Earl. Both these honours were of course worthless as to recognition in this country, but Louis XIV in 1702 made genuine French Peerages of them both, and on the Continent we are informed that even James's creations were accepted. The Dukedom of Perth expired in 1760, and the Melfort Dukedom, which was limited to heirs male of the body of the 1st Duke, has now also lapsed.

MEREDYTH, BARONET of Greenhills This title (1st 1866) is now pronounced Mereth, no proof being available of the marriage of a former ancestor of the family, who in consequence has promptly withdrawn. The 7th Bt required a pedigree in accordance with which the line antedated until the death of the 10th Bt in 1804, but the genuineness of that pedigree has since been gravely suspected, though Burke continues haughtily to insert 'Sir Charles George Meredyth' but adding that the official authorities regard the line as having become extinct on the death of the 1st Bt in 1865. The lady hitherto known as widow of the 10th Bt will consequently also have her title extinguished.

ORATIONS Scot. E. of Moray and Lord Abernethy and Strathern 1904, 1st Du. 1905, E. of Moray and 1st Du. 1906, 18th Bp. of St. Andrew's of Castle Stuart, 1906 "Lord Dorn" is the courtesy title of an old son—There have been repeated Earloms of Moray some from China times. The 1st Earl of the present series was a son of King James V, Jus. Ft. wart, Prior of St. Andrew's (His charter of 1568 above was supplied by chart. of 1564 and 1566, the last including the name of the original grant.) He became Regent of Scotland, but was assassinated in 1567. His daughter married the 1st Du. and the husband became and had in right of his wife. His son was succeeded by the 2nd Earl of Huntly, who did the deed, had obtained a writ empowering him to "execute justice" on the accomplices in the Earl of Bothwell's raid on Holyrood House. The 2nd Earl Dorn was Sir Jas. Stuart of Dorn, whose sister married John Graham of Cluny and was mother of the "Admirable Cluny" (the 2nd, as we have seen, became 2nd Earl of Moray). The 3rd Earl in 1604 resigned his titles into the Kings hands and obtained a new charter of them. The 4th Earl of Dorn was granted to a brother of the said Earl. The 5th Earl received the British Baroncy. The 6th Earl of Moray was really included in this line through the daughter of the 2nd Bp. of Murray marrying the 5th Earl of Moray, their grandson coming to succeed as 6th Earl and 2nd Du. Upon his death without issue the titles separated again.

MOWBRAY, SEGRAVE, AND STOURTON (per se Mowbray, Seegrave, Sturton), BARON CHARLES BOTOLPH JOSEPH STOURTON, 24th Bn.
Mowbray, 25th Seegrave, and 21st Stourton (Eng.),
a D.L. for W. Rid., formerly Lieut. E. Yorks Mil. son of 23rd Bn. M., b. May 23, 1867, suc.
1893 (C), mar. (same year) Mary, dau of the late Thos. A. Constable, Esq. Seat, Allerton Park, Knaresborough, Yorks.

CREATIONS. Eng. 1st Mowbray, 1243, by writ. 1st Seegrave, 1245, Bn. and 1st Stourton, of Stourton, Wills 1248 (the oldest Barony by letters patent now extant) Chmn. to a Norfolk Earldom of 1324 disallowed Nov. 1905
—The first nobles to hold the two oldest of these baronies were Roger de Mowbray and Nicholas de Seegrave, but the two lines became united by the marriage of the 4th Bn. Mowbray with the Bess 5th in the Seegrave line (whose grandfather had in 1324 been created Earl of Norfolk, and whose mother was Countess and afterwards Lady Duchess of the same) and their son, the 6th 1st Mowbray and 7th Seegrave, was made Earl of Nottingham and Duke of Norfolk. The Duke, as he now was, was charged by the Duke of Hereford (afterwards King Henry IV.) with attempting a murderous intent on King Richard II., and this charge he challenged Hereford to substantiate by single combat.
The King forbade the duel and banished them both from the kingdom, when Norfolk died of the plague at Yarmouth (Nicolas says "of grief"). His son, who succeeded, was refused the title of Duke, but retained the double Earldoms and Baronies. He was involved in the rebellion of Scrope, Archbp. of York, and arrested and beheaded without trial. There was thus no attainder, and his titles passed to his brother, to whom eventually the Dukedom was restored. They remained in this line till the death in 1475 of the 5th Duke (both 1st Mowbray) who left only a daughter, to whom the Baronies passed, whilst the higher honours became extinct. She was affianced to the Duke of York, brother of Edward V., who, with himself, was murdered in the Tower, the lady pre-deceasing. The Baronies now fell into abeyance between the male descendants of the daughters of the 5th Bn. who had respectively married the ancestors of the present lines of Norfolk and Berkeley. The abeyance was determined in favour of John, Lord Howard, to whom the Dukedom was restored, but who fell at Bosworth and was attainted, as stated under "Norfolk".
The history of the two houses is now identical until in 1777, on the death of the 9th Duke and 2nd Bn., the two Baronies fell again into abeyance, whilst the Dukedom passed from this line to the nearest male heir. It was a hundred years later before the abeyance of the Baronies was ended by their conference in 1798 upon the 10th Bn.
Stourton. The 1st Peer in this line was Sir John Stourton (Kt.), a distinguished soldier and statesman, Treasurer of the Royal Household and M.P. for Wilts and Dorset, and whose descendant now came into this line through the marriage of the 15th Bn. with Winifred, one of the co-heiresses to the Mowbray title. The 6th Bn. was hanged (by a silken cord) for the murder of a former steward of his father's. The 10th was heavily fined on suspicion of complicity in the Gunpowder Plot.

*• The 'Luck of Edenhall' is stated to be a glass beaker of an extremely fine material and ornamented with various coloured devices, it is enclosed in a leather case bearing the monogram I H S which suggests the idea that it had been used for sacramental purposes. It has only a legendary origin, and that is that a group of faeries were suddenly surprised one evening in the mansion grounds and the cup was taken from them, upon which one of them gave forth the words—

If this glass be broken or tall Farwell to the luck of Edenhall

Ettrick, 1874—The 1st Scottish Bar was Sir Archibald Napier (Kt.), who accompanied James V. into England, being afterwards made a Judge of Session, a Scottish Privy Councillor, Baronet, and Baron. His father was John Napier, famous to mathematicians as an enterer of the Napierian logarithms. The 5th in line was a Baroness, the succession being open to "heirs general whatsoever." Her daughter, who on the death of her brother, became Mistress of Napier, (see Inverclyde, "Marriages of Peeresses"), married Sir Wm. Scott, and Bt. of Thirlstane, but their son, the 6th Bn. and 2d Bt., resumed the surname of Napier. The 1st Bn. was a few weeks before his elav-tion to the Peerage, created Lordship of Napier, but on the passing of this Barony to a daughter, the Barony went to a collateral and hereditary domain, till in 1871 it was, as to the title, given to the 1st Bn. Napier, but the Barony is still alive, as a title Bt. of Napier. The 10th Bn. a K.T. and P.C., who had been Bt. of the United States and Netherlands, and Ambassador in Russia and Prussia (Governor of Malacca, and Acting Viceroy of India, was given the U.K. Barony. The ancestor of the house was pronounced to have "in power," and thus saying was given a title to the family name.

H of Lords, mar 1845 the late Lady Mary Jane Diana Agar (d 1904), dau of 2nd E of Northampton Seas, Trafalgar House, Salisbury CREATIONS U K Bn Nelson, 3801, Earl Nelson and Viso Marton of Trafalgar, 3802, "Viso Trafalgar" has been the old son a courtesy title, but "Viso Marton" has been substituted since death of the late earl — "Of Nelson and the North" (still less of the South) there is little need to discourse at any length After his victory of the Nile the gallant Admiral was first created Bn N (1798) and then Viso N (1801, after Copenhagen), with no special remainder, three months after this last he was a second time created Bn N, but with special remainder to his father In the same year he received the Sicilian honour of Duke of Bronte, for which see further under "Bridport, to which house it passed by marriage His brother and successor was raised to the Earldom with the now subsisting Viso, he was succeeded by his nephew, whose surname of Bolton was exchanged for Nelson. Of the third great naval victory, which was fatal to its hero, it may be worth remarking that the correct pronunciation is as Byron gives it, Trafalgar, and not as we are in the habit of pronouncing the London Square in which his Column stands His Lordship was also one of the courtesy title "Trafalgar" applied to eldest sons is also pronounced with accent on the last syllable

CREATIONS Scot B of Newburgh, Viso of Kynnauld and Bn Livingston 1850—Sir Jno Livingston, and Bt, a staunch supporter of the Royalists and afterwards a Gentleman of the Bedchamber to Charles II, was created Viso Newburgh in 1647, but this title, together with the Baronetcy, expired at the death of his son. In 1866, however, the three titles above had been conferred upon the original residant with remainder to "heirs general," thus the daughter of the 2nd Earl succeeded. Eventually, through the marriage of the 7th Countess with Marquess Bandini, the line became what it is now—distinctly foreign

PERTH, EARL OF WILLIAM HUNTLY Drummond, 15th Earl, 11th Vis Strathallan (both Scot), late Capt 3rd Batt Black Watch (Mil.), Chief of Clan Drummond, son of 10th Vis Strathallan and a remote cousin of 14th Earl b Aug 5, 1871, suc to Viscy 1893, to Earldom 1902, unmrd Seat, Strathallan Castle, Machanay, Perthsh

CREATIONS Scot Hered. Thane of Lennox, 1099. Hered Steward of Menteith and Strathgairn, 1473. 1st Drummond of Cargill, 1488. E of Perth and 1st Drummond of Stobhall and Montfex, 1505 (remainder to heirs male whatsoever), 1st Mar 1569. Vice Strathallan and 1st Drummond of Crombie 1586—The origin of the two earliest titles is quite obscure. Jas Drummond, a PC and Constable of Strirling Castle, who had been employed on various embassies, was created 1st Ld. of Cargill. The 4th Ld. was made Earl of Perth and the 4th Earl was awarded by James II, while in exile, the title of Duke of Perth, which title continued to be used till the death of the 6th titular Duke. By this time the Earldom had become dormant through an attainer but the nominal succession went to a cousin whose son was confirmed in the title as 12th Earl. On the death of this last in 1803 the Earldom passed to the line of Melfort (q v) and the two Earldoms remained united until 1902, when the demise of the venerable 14th Earl separated them again on account of the difference in the order of remainder—that of Melfort stated to be open to female succession passing, if such could be proved, to his daughter and only surviving child (who however leaves it dormant) whilst the Perth Earldom went to the nearest male relative. Vice Strathallan involving the absorption of his own Viscy. The title of Ld. Maderly was given to the Hon Jas Drummond and son of the 2nd Ld. of Cargill is great grandson of the 1st Ld. and the 4th Ld. M was promoted to be Vis Strathallan. He held a command in the Royalist Army in 1688 and afterwards joined the Marq of Ormonde in the same cause in Ireland. He was taken prisoner at Worcester, but escaped to Scot land, and on the dispersion of his party there in 1654 he entered the army of Russia. The 4th Vis was slain at Culloiden and attainer was pronounced against him in the following year. Owing, however, to a verbal inaccuracy in the bill the title was still assumed, and under the 8th Peer it was legally restored.

CHARTERS Scot. Vice Drumlanrig and Bn. Douglas or Hawick and Tibbers, 1868, D. of Queensberry, 1833, a 1st, 1869, M. of Queensberry, 1868 - Sir Wm. Douglas, a natural son of the 2nd Earl of Douglas (who fell at "Chevy Chase," as stated under "Hamilton, D." and "Mar.") and himself distinguished in the wars with England, received an undated charter of the Drumlanrig Barony. The 5th feudal Bn. Drumlanrig is a title starting before 1369, having succeeded James VI. at the time of his accession to the English crown, obtained the Viscounty and then the Earldom, the feudal title disappearing. The 3rd Earl was made Marq. of Queensberry, and in the following year Duke of the same, both creations having a string of lesser titles attached to them. His successor, however, obtained a new patent under which the terms of remainder were altered, the result being that the Dukedom, with all the other titles not stated above, became merged, on the death of the 4th Duke, in the Dukedom of Buccleuch

The 1st Baron was Peter Isaac Thellusson, son, whose father, Peter Thellusson, had settled in London about the middle of the 18th century and there accumulated a large fortune as a merchant. This he left at his death in 1797 tied up in Government Funds for a prolonged period. As Byron expressed it, "for the unborn heir of an unborn grandson." This was allowed to be carried out, but an Act was passed, known ever since as the Thellusson Act, under which no property bequeathed by a will is allowed to accumulate more than 25 years.

CREATIONS Eng A Bt 1890 (s) 5t Bt Bn Grantham, 1896 UK Earl de Grey, 1898, Visc Goderich, 1897, E of Ripon, 1833, M of Ripon, 1872—The Rt Hon Sir Thos Robinson, a cousin of the 6th Bt, a distinguished diplomatist and one of the Secretaries of State, was raised to the Peerage as Bn Grantham A Marquessate of De Grey had been created in 1740, and upon its failure the eldest daughter of the Marches who was its end and last holder was made Countess de Grey. Her nephew and heir had already many years succeeded as 3rd Bn Grantham before by her decease the Earldom was brought by special remainder into this line. Earl de Grey's younger brother Fredk John was created Visc Goderich and Earl of Ripon. His son, the late Peer, succeeded his father in this title, then his uncle Earl de Grey, and ultimately was raised to the Marquessate of Lippon. The above extinct De Grey Marquessate had carried with it a Barony of Lura, and this passed by regular succession to the daughter who was created Countess, but by the marriage of her successor Earl de Grey, and ultimately to the 6th Earl de Grey, whose father had left no male issue, the Barony went with that daughter into this latter line, and on the extinction of this it became an independent Peerage, but the De Grey Earldom, which was limited to the heirs male of the above Countess and then those of her eldest wife of the 2nd Bn Grantham, passed, by the latter descent, to the late Peer, his predecessor's nephew.
The late Marquess had been Viceroy of India, and also Sec of State for War, India, and the Colonies, Lord Pres of Council &c, and late Lt. Privy Seal

U K Earl James, 1847, Sir Robt Ker (Kt.), who had accompanied James VI into England, was created Bn Roxburgh and afterwards Earl of the same (with accessory titles). Capt Rifle Brigade (served in Crimea, Malak, and Abyssinia), and afterwards Major London Scottish R.V. grandson of 8th Bn and son of William Hors-Ruthven, Esq., b June 14, 1838, suc 1864, mar 1869 Lady Caroline Annesley Gore, dau of 4th B of Arran, K.P. Scot, Newland, Gorebridge, Midlothian

CREATOR Scot. Lt. Ruthven, 1849—Sir Thos. Ruthven (Kt.) was the 1st Bn of the present line, the titles of Lt. Ruthven (1849) and Mar. of Gowrie (1864) having been forfeited by attainer in 1800, in consequence of the plot known as the Gowrie Conspiracy the 1st Lt. of the now line was grandson of the 2nd Lt. of the former one. The original patent of this Peerage having been destroyed by fire, a question has been raised as to whether it allowed of descent through a female, and "Directors" accordingly treat the present Bn as a claimant only, he having had three Baronesses among his predecessors. But "Burke" furnishes a series of facts which show that the succession has never hitherto been considered open to question, whilst the successive Peers have been summoned as Barons or Baronesses to every coronation from that of George II onwards

CREATIONS Eng D of Rutland, 1595, Bn Manners of Haddon, 1597, by writ, D of Rutland and M of Granby, 1793. K Bn Rous of Belyot, 1596—Thomas Manners, 13th Lt Rous (as "De Rous," which is the same Peerage), was created 1st Earl of Rutland, the two titles running together until the death of the 3rd Earl, when the Barony went to his daughter who married the Earl of Essex, but their son was succeeded in the Barony by the 5th Earl of Rutland thus bringing it back to the former line, the latter Tailor, having devolved upon the brother of the 2nd Earl, and so proceeded till, on the death of the 5th Earl just mentioned, it passed with his daughter (his only child) to the line of the Dukes of Buckingham, the rest of whom she married. On the death of the Duke it fell into abeyance out of which it was called in the reign of George III in favour of Charlotte, wife of Lord Henry FitzGerald, whose descendant is the present Duke of Eps. The 6th Earl was made D. Manners of Haddon and afterwards elevated to the Dukedom. The 12th Duke, a K.G. and G.C.B., was respectively a Cabinet Minister between 1829 and 1832—variously as First Commissioner of Works (twice), Postmaster-General (twice) and Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster.

CREATION Eng Bn St John of Bletho, 1859. A Bt 1860—Oliver St John, 8th Bn Beauchamp of Bletho (bequest Poyntel), was the first to obtain this Barony. That of Beauchamp had been conferred, by Edward III, upon Roger de Beauchamp, a distinguished soldier and Chamberlain of the Household. Sir H Nicolas mentions no fewer than eight Baronies bearing the title of Beauchamp, and that of Beauchamp of Bletho was created by writ in 1336, but remained dormant from the above Roger's death in the absence of any further summons. Upon the creation by patent of the St John Barony the other title was revived, but through female inheritance it passed successively from this line to the family of Nottingham and Peterborough, and the Duke of Gordon, all it fell into abeyance in 1835 between the four surviving sisters of the 5th Duke and the then heir of the Duke of Manchester. The 2nd Bn St John was one of the Judges in the trial of Mary Queen of Scots. The 4th was made Duke of Bolingbroke, but that title expired with the 3rd Earl. The existing Bolingbroke Viscty, however, starts from the same ancestry as this. The form "Bletho" is that of the Roll of the Peers and of "Debrett" and Mr Coke's, elsewhere it is given as "Bletho" or "Bletho"

* The late Count de Salis was Ambassador from the Grisons Republic to Queen Anne, and his son, the 2nd Count, was naturalized 1790 as a British subject. All younger sons, and their sons, have a right to prefix "Count" to their Christian names and similarly daughters can prefix "Countess" so long as they are married. The family—which contains now between one and two hundred members, mostly German but some Italian and French—were created Heral. Kts. by Pope Pius V in 1572. The name is Italian, but the branch given under De Salis 1917 for all other names has anglicized it and thus takes the preposition as part of the surname.

CREATIONS Eng. Bn. Cecil, 1503, Viscount Cranborne, 1504, B. of Salisbury, 1505. St. Br. M. of Salisbury, 1506.—There were Earls of Salisbury from the time of Stephen, but the title underwent several temporary extinctions. The 3rd Earl in the second line was beheaded by the rabble at Cirencester in 1200. Richard Nevill, the 1st in the next line, was attainted and beheaded. His successor, Earl John of Warwick, was slain at Barnet in 1471. Both Barons were next conferred upon the Duke of Clarence, the murdered brother of Edward IV. Then the Duke of Gloucester, afterwards King Richard III., was made Earl of Salisbury. After him Margaret, daughter of the Duke of Clarence, was Countess, but she too was attainted and beheaded. This brings us to the commencement of the present line, which was created simultaneously with that of Exeter. The Rt. Hon. Sir Robert Cecil, younger son of Wm. Cecil, 1st Burghley and Secretary of State under Elizabeth, was awarded the above three English titles shortly after King James's accession. The 7th Earl, an F.R.S. and Lord Chamberlain to Geo. III. was raised to the Marquessate. The 2nd Marq. was Lord Lieutenant of Middlesex and Lord President of the Council. The late 3rd Marquess, K.S. and C.V.O., was three Prime Minister and four times Secretary for Foreign Affairs. Previous to his accession to the Peerage he had been (1833-59) an M.P. at first as Lord Robert Cecil and from the death of his elder brother as Viscount Cranborne.—The family name is conventionally Cecil only, that of Georgina having been added by the 2nd Marquess on his marriage with a lady of that surname.

ORATION UK Bn Savile, 1888—The 1st Bn was the Rt Hon Sir Jno Savile, GCB, who had been Minister Plenipotentiary to several Continental Courts. His original name was Savile Lumley, which he exchanged 1837 for Savile, the present Peer in 1868 preserving the surname which had formerly stood second, thus how ever must have been for himself alone, as he gives us "Savile Lumley" for the names below. There had existed a much earlier Dymy and Viceroy of Savile, and the 2nd Lt was created Earl of Sussex in 1644, but at his death in 1671 all his hon 10111 expired, and though the name of Savile, no mention is made in either 'Burke' or 'Lodge' of any connection with the present house.

CHARLES, CHAS Bn Saye and Sele, 1847 by writ, suc by patent precedence granted by latter—Sir James Fleming, Warden of the Cinque Ports and Lord Treasurer of England, was created 1st Bn, subsequently, however, he was imprisoned in the Tower, whence he was notoriously dragged by Jack Cades mob and behanged in Chesham. His successor was made Viscount of England under the great Earl of Warwick, but afterwards he fled to Flanders with Edward IV, and was ultimately slain at the Battle of Barnet. The next four Barons were never summoned to Parliament, but the 7th inherited a new Barony by letters patent. The 8th Bn (and by patent, but the numbering is reckoned from the 1st Bn by writ) was distinguished as a leader on the side of the Parliament against King Charles, but though he remained "religiously disposed" he died in 1864 without having suffered any punishment from that Monarch's son. He was created Vis Saye and Sele, but at the death of his son the Vis and the Barony went into abeyance, the one by writ being treated as preventing the succession, but the Viscy held on till the death of its 6th possessor in 1878. At this date the abeyance was determined in favour of Thos Twissleton, a Major General in the Army, who subsequently succeeded as 18th Bn (the numbering of "Burke" dated retroactively from the date 1878, when the abeyance was actually terminated, though three successors de jure never assumed the title). The next Peer assumed the name of FLEMING (also Eardley, which went no further than his successor, and the 15th per Twissleton), who was Crown Resident at Herford Cathedral, adopted the addition of Wykeham Fleming. He was both in descent from Geoffrey Ld Saye, one of the 48 Barons who sprung from the King the observance of Magna Charta—The family name is conventionally Fleming only, though the full form occurs in the "Army List."

CREATIONS Scot E of Seafield, Viscount Reildhaven, and Lt Ogilvie of Deskford and Cullen, 1701, a Bt 1665 UK Bn Strathpey, 1884—Sir Walter Ogilvie (Kt) was in 1665 created Lt. Ogilvie, and his son James was in 1698 and 1641 advanced to be Earl of Findlater The Lordship and 1st Earldom expired, but the 1641 Earldom lasted till the death of the 7th in his line James, 4th Earl of Findlater, received two creations of Peerage the former including a Viscount of Seafield which lapsed concurrently with the Findlater Earldom At the second creation he was awarded the above three Scottish titles, this time with remainder to heirs of his estate Accordingly on the death of the above 7th Earl (4th of Seafield) the titles of 1701 passed to a cousin, Sir Lewis Alex Grant 8th Bt who forthwith assumed the additional name of Ogilvie and became 5th Earl of Seafield The 6th Earl was made Bn Strathpey a title previously granted to the 7th but lapsing on the death of his successor 'Burke' now adopts 'Ogilvie Grant' as the surname in place of his former 'Grant-Ogilvie' Conventionally it is Grant only, and hence the family have evidently been indifferent as to the compound order

SHREWSBURY (pron Shuhzbury), EARL OF, AND EARL TALBOT CHARLES HENRY JOHN (Chewynd-) Talbot, 20th E of Shrewsbury (Eng.) and 5th Earl Talbot (St Br), E of Waterford (Irel), PREM EARL on Rolls both of Eng and Irel, but see INTRODUCTION under "Earl" K O V O (1907), Hered Lord High Steward of Ireland and High Steward of the Borough of Stafford, formerly Lieut Staffordshire Yeom, son of 19th E b Nov 13, 1860, suc 1877 (C), mar 1882 Ellen Mary, dau of the late Chas R Palmer-Morewood, Esq, and divorced wife of Alf E M Mundy, Esq Seat, Ingestree Hall, Stafford (Clas of S, Alton Towers, Stoke-upon-Trent)

ORIGINS Eng - E of Shrewsbury, 2442 St Br Bn Talbot, 1733, Earl Talbot and Viso Ingestree, 1784 Irel E of Waterford, 2445 - A Barony of Talbot by writ commenced in 1331 and that out of a feudal Barony dating from the time of Henry I, and thus Feudage continued until it is now for the second time in abeyance. Jno Talbot, 7th Bn (a Bnss was 5th in line), a great Commander in the French wars, termed by Shakespeare "the great Almshouse of the field," though once defeated and taken prisoner by Joan of Arc, was created Earl of Shrewsbury and of Waterford, being twice made Lord Lieutenant of Ireland. He was slain in his 60th year after having been victorious in forty fights, and the English dominion in France practically expired with him. The 2nd Earl fell at Northampton on the Lan-castrian side. The 6th Earl became 4th husband of the proud and unscrupulous woman Elizabeth, daughter of John Hardwick. The 11th Earl died from a wound received in a duel with the 2nd Duke of Buckingham. The 12th was created Duke of Shrewsbury (1564) for his services in transferring the crown to William of Orange (the having embraced the Protestant religion in place of that of his ancestors) he was afterwards influential in securing the succession of George I. But he left no issue and the Dukedom expired. His cousin and successor returned to the older religion and was in holy orders. The above Barony of 1331, after its first abeyance, passed by marriage into the Norfolk Dukedom, in which it remained until the death of the 9th Duke in 1777. Meanwhile in 1733 there had been created the still existing Barony of Talbot (of Hensall), which was conferred upon Chas Talbot, son of the militant Bp of Durham (see INTRODUCTION), a descendant of one of the younger sons of the said Earl, himself being successively M P for Tregony and Durham, a P C, and afterwards Lord Chancellor. His son and successor Lord Steward of the Household, was created Earl Talbot. The elder Shrewsbury line became extinct with the 17th Earl in 1851, so that the succession then passed to the 3rd Earl Talbot, who became 18th Earl of Shrewsbury and of Waterford. The additional surname Chewynd was taken by royal licence by the 21st Earl Talbot, but it is generally ignored in use except in legal documents.

Mackinnon, Esq Seas, Maiden-Bradley House Bath, Barry-Fomeroy, Totnes, Devon, Burton Hall, Loughborough, Leic, town res, 35 Grosvenor Sq, W

CREATIONS Eng D. of Somerset and Bn. Seymour, 1847 (Barony one day bef. Dukedom), a Bt. 1847.—Sir Edw. Seymour, brother of Jane Seymour and Kt. of the Bath, who became 1st Duke, was a great favourite with Henry VIII., who appointed him Protector of his son Edward VI. (the Duke's nephew) He was also made Earl Marshal and Lord Great Chamberlain, both for life only A grandson was the first to receive the Barony The Protector however, was brought to the block in 1552 through an outrageous usurpation of authority on the part of some leading nobles abetted by the Roman Catholics The titles were thus forfeited, but one of his sons was made Earl of Hertford and Bn. Beauchamp This nobleman married Catherine, sister of Lady Jane Grey, and her being of royal descent rendered the union criminal in law, both of them were accordingly sent to the Tower, the Earl remaining there for nine years and his wife dying His grandson succeeded him and was in 1560 created Marq. of Hertford, and in 1566 the Dukedom and Seymour Barony were restored with the original precedences He unhappily was guilty of a like indiscretion to that of his grandfather, for he secretly married James I.'s 1st cousin, Lady Arabella Stuart, and had in consequence to flee the country, whilst his wife died in the Tower The Marquessate expired with the 4th Duke, but the Earl and the titles of 1547 went to a cousin, who was shot in Italy by the husband of a lady to whom he had been affianced The 5th Peer, who was known as "The Proud Duke," married Lady Eliza Percy, daughter of the last Earl of Northumberland, distinguished as Mistress of the Robes to Queen Anne. The 7th Duke was given the lapsed Earl's name, but both that and the Hertford Dukedom, with some other honours, lapsed at his decease, the Dukedom came more strictly to a collateral. This leading title, the second in rank in the Peerage of England, had been originally created in 1443, and was repeatedly extinct or forfeited before 1547, the said Duke having been beheaded in 1553 when taken in arms against Edward IV at Barnham. The surname was long corrupted into Symour, but the original St. Maur was restored by the 13th Duke.

CREATORS Eng E of Suffolk, 1263. Vice Andover and Bn Howard of Charlton, 1264. E of Berkshire 1266. Lord Thos Howard, son of the aforesaid 4th Duke of Norfolk (beheaded 1571), was created Earl of Suffolk. He had been a distinguished naval officer under Elizabeth and was specially vigilant in discovering the Gunpowder Plot, later on he was appointed Chancellor of Cambridge University and Lord High Treasurer of England. Previously to the Earldom he had received the Barony of Howard de Walsden, but that Barony fell into abeyance on the death of the 3rd Earl and ultimately was revived in a different branch of the family. The 1st Earl's end son was created Vice Andover and afterwards Earl of Berkshire. The 4th Earl of the latter title succeeded as 11th Earl of Suffolk (the tenures of title in this line having averaged much shorter than those of the other owing to a brother or uncle having succeeded in four instances). Former Earldoms of Suffolk had existed and one of them in 1248 rose to be a Dukedom, the 3rd Duke was beheaded in 1533 and a 4th created a year after, the 7th and last was beheaded in 1554. There had also been one Earl of Berkshire previous to the above creation but this lasted only 1263.

Bn Gower, 1793, Gr Br Earl Gower and Vice Trentham, 1745, Marq of Stafford, 1786 UK D of Sutherland, 1833—The Scottish Earldom is said to have existed in 1067, but William styled the 1st Earl, was given the title about 1230 for his services in suppressing an insurrection. The 17th Earl was succeeded by his sister. The 18th (brother 13th, if the Countess is reckoned) forfeited his title in 1766 from suspected complicity in the Earl of Huntly's rebellion, but it was restored in 1768 from which date his precedence is reckoned in the Scottish Roll of Peers. He was afterwards poisoned by his uncle's widow, who wanted the title for her son but his own son escaped by accidental detention from the poisoned meal and the perpetrator was sentenced to death, but preferred suicide in prison. The Countess who was 21st in line married the 2nd Marq of Stafford, who long afterwards was created 2d Duke (in 1833). The 2d Bn Gower was Sir Jno Leveson Gower, 5th Bt who had married a daughter of the 2d Duke of Rutland. His successor was created the Earldom, the 2nd Earl to the Marquessate, and the 3rd Marq to the Dukedom

It was the 2nd Duke who assumed the additional name of Sutherland Creation 1st Bn Trimblestown, 1861 (18th Bn split the title "Trimblestown," and that is the form in the Irish Roll, but the present Peer restored the form here given). Sir John Barnwell was created 1st Bn by Edward IV. His successor had to receive a pardon for participation in the plot of Lambert Simnel. The 2d Bn was Lord High Chancellor of Ireland. On the death of the 18th Peer in 1897 the title was dormant till 1898, when it was claimed by a remote cousin who died the same year, before his right had been established. This process had consequently to be undertaken by his brother the present Baron. In 1891 there was a dispute as to precedence between the 18th Bn and the 9th, but the former and it was then decided in favour of the former. In 1893 when the present Peer established it is right the order was reversed, but still later a new Roll was made up with Trimblestown restored to its former position ment was created a Baronet (the second person in Ireland to obtain that title) and afterwards made Bn Mountmorris. The Viscounty was a reversionary grant to fall to Sir Francis on the death of the then Vis., who was without an heir (his Henry Power, cr Vis 1822 & 1832) the Mountmorris Baroncy was valid at once. The 2nd Vis. was wife Lari of Anglesey and Bn Annesley in the English Peerage and these titles descended to the 5th Earl, who was also 5th Bn Artham a title conferred on the 1st Earl's son. But by his death in 1874 the English House of Lords refused to admit this 5th Earl's eldest son, raising an objection to his legitimacy which the Irish Parliament had accepted as good. He thus retained the Irish honours and had that of Earl of Mountmorris added to them—in England that went no further than his only surviving son (1793-1841) The Viscty and the Mountmorris Baroncy now passed again to a collateral the grandfather and a predecessor of the present Peer. Debreit, however regards both of these as unsubstantiated claims only stating that they have never had their titles established by the Committee of Privileges.

VALENTIA, 1st Ad. Bt. 1850, Vis. of Valentia, 1855 (b. s.), Bn. Mountmorris, 1850—Sir Fms. Annesley (Kt.) a P.O. and Secretary of State in the Irish Govern.

CREATION Eng Broke, 1622 Gt Br Earl Frauke 1740 D of Warwick, 1759-The Rt Hon Sir Frauke Greville a Kt of the Bath and Chancellor of the Exchequer was created 3rd Br Broke he was descended on the female side from the brother of Wm de Berchump 20th Earl of Warwick (died 1298) in the original line. The 8th Bn was a General in the Parliamentary Army at Edgehill and in the Siege of Lichfield during the latter of which he was killed by a musket ball. The 4th E Bn was one of his Commissioners who invited Charles II to return. The 8th Bn was promoted to be Earl Brooke and later, when a pre-existing Earl of Warwick had become extinct that title was added to his previous one. There had been Dukes of Warwick from the time of William II, and the extinctions forfeitures and beheadings which have followed them makes the title a rival in tragedy with the Norfolk Dukedom. These circumstances however have been happily absent from the present line of descent. The 13th Earl of the original line brother-in-law of the famous "king maker" who in 1460 was created Earl for life was promoted to be Duke of Warwick and crowned "King of the Isle of Wight" by Henry VI's own hand. These latter honours went no further than himself and his sister's husband, who received the Earl's name by a fresh creation was slain at Barnet in 1471. Edward IV's brother, the Duke of Clarence, was the next recipient of the title but he was attainted and murdered his two successors being all beheaded. The second of these who thus suffered was Margaret, Countess of Salisbury and Warwick whilst the third who was previously Viscount of Lisle was created Duke of Northumberland two years before his execution. His son was restored to the Earldom, but died childless in 1599 when the title remained extinct until 1812. A new series of eight Earls now followed, and upon the lapsing of their time in 1743 that of the present Earl succeeded as stated above "Earl Brooke," being the older, is the leading title upon the Roll.

Tyrone 1805—Boreford gives us the precise date of creation of the original Barony but does not give the name of its first holder, so that it appears doubtful whether he is satisfied of its existence. Bn la Poer however is a title under which he has been known since and the bar to which is B. de la Poer, Esq, he gives us as a descendant of Robert de Point Knight Marshal and Joint Governor of Ireland in 1179. The 6th Bn was in 1675 created Earl of Tyrone and Viscount, but these titles expired with the 3rd Earl. The daughter of this last however, who was allowed the Barony of La Poer in 1805 married Sir Marcus Boreford 4th Bt, and to him wife succeeded the Viscounty of Tyrone and subsequently a remainder of the lapse of Boreford. The 2nd Earl was elevated to the Marquessate and created Bn Tyrone of St Briton whilst on the death of his mother he inherited also the Barony of La Poer—the only Irish Peerage besides the Viscountcy of Tyrone which is open to female succession. The 4th Marq was in holy orders, and the 5th who had represented Co Waterford in Parliament became its Member, a K.P., and Master of the Buckhounds

CREATIONS U K Vis Wellington and Bn Douro 1809, Mar and Earl of Wellington 1812, D of Wellington and Mar Douro 1814, Irel Mar Mornington 1796 E of Mornington and Vis Wellesley 1796 Welsh, Prince of Asturias 1837, Spain Duque de Ciudad Rodrigo and a Grande of the 1st Class 1812 Portugal Conde do Vimieiro 1812, Duque da Victoria (commonly spell Victoria, but the town is in Spain, where it is never used) and Marques da Torre Vedras 1812—Of the deeds of the great Duke of Wellington the 'hero' of a hundred fights this book is called upon to chronicle but the slightest summary. He sat in the Irish Parliament in 1790 as Member for Trim, but from 1794 to 1797 his career was all but wholly a military one. His first great battle was that of Assaye (1803) in the Nizam's dominions and after it came the long series of the Peninsular War—Vimeiro, Talavera, Busaco, Fuentes d'Onore, Ciudad Rodrigo, Badajoz, Salamanca, and Vittoria (these in 1808-9), followed by Orthez and Toulouse in France (1814) and then Quatre Bras and Waterloo. From Jan 1818 for not quite three years he was Prime Minister. He died in 1852 at the age of 83. All the honours of U K and the Continent were accorded to him personally. His grandfather, the 2nd Bn Mornington (Irish Pairage) was Richard Colley who assumed a cousin's surname of Wellesley (the celebrated Rev Geo Wesley was a relative) and afterwards changed it to Wellesley. The 1st Bn obtained the Earldom of Mornington, and his 2nd son was the 2nd Duke. The two elder sons were respectively Richard and Earl created Marq Wellesley in Ireland, who was Governor General of India but died childless, and William, 3rd Earl, created Bn. Marqborough—both titles passing to his son and grandson but that of Marqborough lapsing on the death of this last in 1869 when the Mornington titles and the Wellesley Viscty went to the 2nd Duke

Peebles, and Ld Douglas of Neidpath, Lyns, and Munard, 1867 UK Bn Wemyss 1888—Sir John Wemyss 1st Bt (a title which expired with his son), was created 1st Ld and Earl, he added with the Parliament in the Civil War. Thos and Peor obtained a new patent giving remainder of his Earldom and Lordship to his daughter and her heirs male. The heir of the Earl 5th in line was attainted for taking part in the rebellion of 1746, so that the titles remained dormant from his father's death till his own (1756-87) when as he left no issue his brother succeeded as untouching by the attainer (1 Burke 1000ver, singularly calls the attainted successor 6th Earl de jure) thus making the present Peer the 10th. Heberts on the other hand, omits the C's in the numbering, styles him only the 8th. The latter's grand-on 1st 7th Ld inherited also the Earldom or March, first bestowed on a son of the 1st Duke of Queensberry the Hon W Douglas whose sister had married the 4th Ld of Wemyss. The 7th Earl was like was the recipient of the U S Bury's baronetcy, son venobically 18th century only this had been assumed in 1772 by the 6th Earl, Douglas appears to have been added by the 7th on his access on to the March Earldom with the landed estate of his great grand mother Lady Anne Douglas

He was afterwards Marshal of the English Army sent into France in 1493. The title was in abeyance 1522-1594, i.e. from the death of the 2nd Bn. till the awarding of the title to Sir Richd. Verney, an ancestor of whom had married one of the co-heiresses (Hans. 5th in line according to Burke). CREATIONS Eng. Bn. St. John of Basing, 1539, E. of Wiltshire, 1550, M. of Winchester, 1551—Sir Wm. Paulet, K.G., was the recipient of these three creations. He was a confidant of Henry VIII. and held the office of Lord Treasurer of England through the changes of the three succeeding reigns, and on being once asked how he had contrived to stand through them all, he replied, 'By being a willow, not an oak.' The 3rd Peer was given all his property through supporting Charles I. in the Civil War, his mansion at Basing being burnt to the ground after a siege. The 6th Marq. was made Duke of Bolton, and that title ran through six in the line. The 3rd Duke (8th Marq.) involved himself with the actress Larina Bewick, and had three sons by her previously to the death of his 1st wife. As he had no other issue, though he eventually married the actress, his titles went to his brother, but on the death of the 6th Duke, who was an Admiral of the White, the Dukedom expired and the Marquessate passed to a descendant of the 5th holder of that title. The 13th Marq. in his closing years assumed the additional name of Burroughs, but this appears to have been for himself alone. His grandson the 15th Peer was a Major in the Coldstream Guards and was killed at Magersfontein in December 1895.

The 5th Bn had married the Baro St Maur 7th in line but the abeyance affected both titles and in the latter case has never been terminated. A second, but brief, abeyance of the Zouches line occurred in 1893 and the daughter in whose favour it was determined altered her title to De la Zouches. Her son the 14th Bn did not continue this form, and the title stands on the Roll as "Zouches of Haryngworth"

INDEX TO THE SEATS AND RESIDENCES CITED IN THE FOREGOING DIRECTORY

*. The design of this Index, the comprehensiveness of which we have been compelled somewhat to limit is to furnish a ready means of reference to the occupant of every address in the Directory within the British Isles provided it bears a distinctive name, is non official in character and held by a person not lower in rank than a Knight or the son or daughter of a Baron. The only exceptions are those of unobscured claimants or of ladies whose former claims to titles have been forfeited by re-marriage. Many residences will doubtless be merely villas or even houses in a terrace distinguished by some special name, but no line of exclusion can possibly be drawn nor is it called for in a list which is not restricted to seats. On the other hand there are almost certainly a large number of villages and hamlets cited in the form of residences, but this also is unavoidable (except by the putting of questions which would often be thought offensive) in view of the large number of actual seats which are designated by apparently local names without the addition of the word House, Hall, or Park. Yet again, there are a large number of residences which are appended to more than one name in the Directory, and in these cases, if relationship cannot be traced, it is presumable that one name represents the occupant and the other the owner. We have done our best to make the distinction clear, or at any rate to supply the name of the occupant.

The greatest pains have been taken to supply to every address the far too frequently omitted post town a long dash being substituted when the Editor's efforts for its discovery have been without avail. More complete addresses will very often be found under the names in the Directory but they are never consciously so abridged as to entail extra labour on the Post Office. It should be noted in the case of such abridgements as 'Gloucester' 'Worcester' 'Leicester' that they invariably denote the county and not the county town—no town whatever being contracted to 'Leicester' it can possibly be confused with the county. 'Durham' without 'Co.' means the city of Durham and similarly in numerous other examples.

At the cost of much additional space every address is now given in the style prescribed under our 'Modes of Addressing the sons of Titles' many contractions however, will naturally be expanded in copying. The names and style of the wife is appended in those numerous instances in which the husband does not hold a title which would on his own account have given him a place in this work.

The rule observed in alphabetizing has been to treat the only names of the residence as one word (the parenthesized 'The' coming out of its true position) can only be ignored) this course is unavoidable on account of the vast number of instances in which a compound designation is split by some in a single word and by others in two

The Wide-World "ROSCUT" COAT for all Climates.

Don't be deceived by Imitations.

Our Coats are PURE WOOL, and never have the damp feeling of the Cotton and Linen imitations now so largely sold by various makers. They have been advocated by THE LANCET from the first, and the Proofing is the finest I know. The SWING SLEEVE is in vogue since like an ordinary sleeve, but giving ample room and freedom for abnormal exercise.

Patterns and Illustrated Catalogue of Sporting Garments post free

Send height and size round chest, with Cheque or Postal Order, and a Coat shall be sent by return or made and despatched in three days

BATH.

The ancient Episcopal City of Bath, the "Queen of Spas," as termed by its natives occupies a leading position as a fashionable inland watering-place. Nestled on the banks of the River Avon, 11 miles from Bristol, and 107 miles from the Metropolis, Bath stands on an elevation of from 50 to 550 feet above sea-level, and has a population of about 50,000. Bath possesses an unrivalled combination of Archaeological, Social, Historical, and Scenic attractions, besides the famous hot springs to which the city owes its origin, then healing virtues being tried annually by 100,000 bathers. The surrounding country is beautifully diversified, there being plenty of woodland and hills. The water supply is constant, and the drainage system is conducted on the most modern principle.

Writing on its qualities, the Medical Officer of Health for Bath says —

"Bath is noted for possessing a great variety of climates within a comparatively circumscribed area. Central Bath has an equable climate, genial in the coldest weather, and eminently suitable for invalids and elderly people, while the modern developments of electric traction, electric trams-cars, motor omnibuses and taxicabs, have brought within easy reach the heights of Lansdown on the north, and those of Combe Down on the south. Lansdown is 750 feet above sea level, with bracing winds, and a limited view of the Bristol Channel. On the north may be seen the pleasing undulations of Gloucestershire, while on the south, terracing the opposing slopes, the fair city of Bath reclines.

"Buildings are scarce on Lansdown, and the views may be enjoyed during a two-mile drive on a level road to the ancient battlefield. The road is dry, being bedded on the cap of Great Oolite or Bath Stone, which is from 100 to 200 feet in thickness. Underlying the Oolite is the Fullers' Earth formation, which being more easily denuded gives gradual slopes. Immediately under the Fullers' Earth is the Inferior Oolite, the outcrop of which may be seen in the lane leading down to the picturesque village of Charlcombe.

"The River Avon coming northward from Limpley Stoke enters the Bath valley at Bathford, and is deflected sharply to the south-west, making another curve round Bath. It flows some distance in the direction of north-west, its course through Bath being curve-like, showing how great must be the variety of aspects enjoyed by the buildings on its banks, which, with the varying sub soils, explain the varying climates.

"The Hot Springs of Bath yield a constant daily flow of over half a million gallons at a temperature of 125° F. throughout only slight variation in either temperature or volume has been noted, and the water must have travelled a considerable distance at from one to two miles below the surface.

"The therapeutic value of the thermal water is most manifest in the treatment of gout and rheumatism, and if its specific action is a curative agent for these primary diseases, is acknowledged, it must be if we accept the cumulative evidence of eighteen hundred years, it follows that the use of these springs may be expected to be beneficial in most of those diseases which owe their origin either to gout or rheumatism, or to these maladies in combination. The most brilliant cures are probably those obtained in cases of muscular rheumatism, and various forms of neuritis such as sciatica, while in many forms of arthritis or disease of the joints, fairly complete arrest of the disease may result, and be maintained if the treatment is repeated every two or three years. The cure occupies three or four weeks of the winter or early spring, as it is then that a fresh onset of the disease is most likely, but if symptoms supervene at any period of the year, through indiscretions of diet or through special strain of overwork or worry, the treatment should not be delayed for any special season of the year.

"The baths are not recommended for the acute stage of any disease, nor for tubercular disease at any time. Valvular diseases of the heart and epilepsy should not be treated by the baths. But drinking the water will be beneficial to the healthy and unhealthy alike, unless the blood-vessels are extensively diseased." (See p. 1111.)

BUXTON.

Standing as it does in the centre of the Peak district 1,000 feet above sea-level and surrounded by hills and moorlands Buxton has become famous as an ideal health resort. But the importance of the town is mainly due to the curative properties of its mineral springs. So popular have these become, that they are annually visited by over ninety thousand people, and every season makes a greater inflow of visitors to the town. The thermal waters are habitually soft and clean, and of a light blue colour, differing materially from most spa waters, which are discoloured and unpleasant to bathe in. Their anallant properties render them admirably adapted for douches-massage. The Buxton waters are rich in nitrogen, and carbon forms about 2 per cent of the total amount of gas. Besides the simple thermal waters, there are non-gaseous, chalybeate waters. Both the chalybeate and thermal waters are taken internally, the latter in doses of four ounces to half a pint.

The summer months, April to September, are those in which the course is usually taken, but the baths are open throughout the year. Buxton is well supplied with pleasures; there is excellent provision for amusement, and ample opportunities exist for recreation.

Buxton is famous for its magnificent scenery, baths, &c. in centre of Peak district, 1,000 ft. above sea-level—the highest in England—and nowhere is the air purer or more bracing. Winter supply exceedingly good and soft. Epidemics are unknown. Prevailing winds, west and south-west. Buxton has a drier atmosphere than the great majority of other resorts, difficult to find a more healthy place or one more suitable for growing boys and girls. Situated at a great elevation among the high lands of the Peak district of Derbyshire, the town of Buxton lies in a deep valley built upon the junction of the mountain limestone and the millstone grit, and is surrounded by bold and picturesque hill and moorland scenery. (See p. lvi.)

CHELTENHAM.

One of the original and most widely known of English Spas, Cheltenham can still hold its own in competing for the patronage of physician and patient who are seeking a convenient place for a cure by water drinking, baths, massage, rest, and a change of scene and society.

The climate is soft, milder in winter and cooler in summer than that of London, though it affords upon the closely neighbouring Cotswold Hills a much more bracing air.

The mineral waters of Cheltenham now in chief use are called respectively the Magnesia Water, the Soda-Sulphate Saline, and the Alkaline Water. These waters are held to be of therapeutic value in gouty conditions, dyspepsia, constipation, obesity, gravel, or stone in bladder or kidney, gall stones, and skin diseases. The artificially concentrated water of the Cheddar Villa Well is known as "Cheltenham Natural Aperient Water." The new "Central Spa," where the Montpellier, Pittville and Cheddar Villa waters may be taken, was inaugurated less than three years ago. External treatment can be obtained at the Montpellier Baths under the control of the Corporation.

DROITWICH.

Found for its name in this and numerous old houses Droitwich situated amidst charming country, and within a few miles of Worcester, holds a unique position among English Spas. Droitwich possesses a brine which may properly be termed as a saturated solution of common salt. The composition of the brine is 22212.880 grains per gallon is follows:—

Chloride of Sodium	2176	872	Sulphate of Soda	342	720
Chloride of Magnesium	2	560	Iodide of Sodium		205
Sulphate of Lime	91	120	Total Salts to an Imp. gallon	22212	880
Sulphate of Alumina	14	400

The brine has a specific gravity of 1.2129 and it has been shown to contain very marked radioactive properties. The baths have been brought thoroughly up-to-date and the Spa continues to grow in popularity.

The chief diseases for which Droitwich treatment is indicated are various forms of neuritis, especially sciatica, all the more chronic forms of gouty and rheumatic joint trouble, especially rheumatoid arthritis or disease of the joints. It also does great benefit from the treatment. Various forms of heart disease show considerable improvement under the special course adopted for their treatment. The joint stiffness following on acute rheumatism is quickly relieved. Inflammation of the muscles and fibrous tissue, so common after influenza, gain a speedy cure.

Recreations and Entertainments—Golf links 9 holes close to town, professional engaged, coaching from April to October, angling in the Salwarpe and the Severn 15 miles away, &c. boating, tennis, croquet, bowls, cricket, badminton, band in park (or in Salters Hall in wet weather), daily during summer season except Sundays, dramatic and social entertainments and concerts in Salters Hall, periodical illuminated fetes with H.M. ## HARROGATE. See p xxxviii

This fashionable inland watering place, renowned for the medicinal properties of its waters, the magnificence of its baths and the completeness of its hydropathic system, stands on a moorland plateau in the West Riding of Yorkshire, at a mean altitude of 400 feet.

Harrogate, with its great variety of springs, represents the resources of more than one Continental place of repute. It has its Kissingen, it has Auvergne springs, and it has a chloride-of-iron well of special and wide repute. The scenery in and around Harrogate is very attractive. Considering that, in addition to such natural advantages, the place offers much social diversion and many interesting excursions, we are justified in speaking of it as taking a position of the first rank among both resorts in this or, indeed, in any country. There are about eighty different mineral springs at Harrogate, and the active constituents vary greatly, in amount and kind, in the various waters. Most of them are cold mineral waters, containing sulphuretted hydrogen and sulphide of sodium.

Harrogate is the most important centre in Yorkshire for thoroughly equipped private secondary schools. The enterprise and educational zeal of highly qualified teachers, aided by the salubrity of the climate, have made these schools famous in every part of England. Harrogate is known as the "Queen of English (Inland) Watering Places," and is world renowned for the medicinal properties of its waters and its magnificent baths, which are acknowledged to be the finest in Europe. The distinguishing features of the climate of Harrogate are its bracing atmosphere, low humidity and abundant sunshine. The mortality is and always has been remarkably low. During the last 10 years the average death-rate has been 12.62 per 1000. The incidence of disease amongst the resident population is low. Epidemic diseases are uncommon, and when they occur they are most frequently from imported causes. Respiratory diseases are infrequent and rheumatic fever is seldom seen. Harrogate is undoubtedly one of the best drained towns in the kingdom. Sunshine records, average for 6 years, 1,796 hours. (See pp lxxi and lxxxi.)

MALVERN.

Great Malvern is an example of a Garden City, is a favourite watering-place, residential town, and sanatorium centre, lying in the garden plains at the foot of the Malvern Hills noted for their hot spring waters, pure air and invigorating climate.

Malvern Water—from its extreme purity, and through the medical orders of distinguished Physicians—has come largely into use as a STIMULANT WATER, free from lime and all injurious salts, so that it may be termed an efficient Protection against Typhoid, Choleraic Disease &c. There are many Springs of widely varying quality in or near Malvern—the hottest being the HUSCHING SPRING in the Leamington Hills above Great Malvern.

The Droitwich Bains is now conveyed directly from Droitwich to Malvern so that the well known Bains-baths may be obtained at Malvern also if required.

Great Malvern and the neighbourhood are much visited by invalids for whom a rather bracing dry inland climate is required, the place is open throughout the year. There are plenty of amusements in the shape of a theatre, concert hall, and open-air concerts, and two golf courses. See p. LXVI.

TUNBRIDGE WELLS.

Situated in the midst of charming scenery, chiefly in Kent, but partly in Sussex, Tunbridge Wells owes its popularity to its chalybeate spring and its natural hot waters. It is a handsome and well-extended town of 35,000 inhabitants, built in an irregular manner, alongside an extensive common surrounded by hills, and the neighbourhood is rich in park lands, woods, and garden beauty. The climate is of the dry and bracing rural type. It owes its popularity to the geological situation and to the formation of the surface. Between it and London lies not far distant, but lying on different strata, is for instance Tunbridge, the climatic differences are great.

Tunbridge Wells was chiefly visited for its chalybeate water, which contains about 0.06 per cent carbonic acid of iron, but is it is very pure in free carbonic acid, and is cannot be ranked with the chalybeate waters of Spa in Belgium and Schwalbach in Germany. The place is now a climatic resort much visited by convalescents during the summer months. The well situated on the Pantiles is the most important of the mineral springs to which the town owes its name and its fame. The mineral water is only used for drinking purposes, nor would there be any advantage in employing it for bathing. The patients treated by means of the mineral water are almost always sufferers from indigestion and debility. In cases of severe indigestion the iron contained in the water is not in itself sufficient to effect a cure, and preparations of iron are administered as adjuncts to the course. The length of the course is two months, and it may be entered upon at any season of the year. The recovery of invalid and weakly persons who resort to Tunbridge Wells for treatment is doubtless greatly aided by the climatic advantages for which the place is justly celebrated. See p. lxviii.

WHITAKER'S SCHEDULE REGISTERS

BOYS' and GIRLS' SCHOOLS.

Whitaker's system of Schedule Registers has been established in order to enable Parents and Guardians, in search of a suitable School, to ascertain all those particulars which cannot be contained in an advertisement in Whitaker's publications.

Two pages in each Register are allotted to every School. The Schedules are most comprehensive, and the particulars are classified under five headings, viz., General Information, School Buildings, Education, Special Features, and Domestic Arrangements.

Only one form of Schedule is used, consequently all essential points can be obtained at a glance from the Register more quickly and easily than by reading through the ordinary prospectuses.

Whitaker's Schedule Registers of Boys' and Girls' Schools

This fashionable south coast health resort extends along a stretch of three broken cliffs in the wild open bay which forms the western extremity of Hampshire, and in recent years it has grown to considerable proportions. It is always fresh, and gardens with many trees, a plentiful and good water supply from wells sunk in the deep chalk, and the proximity to the breezy, health-giving South Downs.' The climate is especially beneficial in various scrofula and tubercular diseases, and its effects are especially beneficial in the case of convalescent children. Deaths in 1909 inclusive, 105 per 1,000 of residents. 100 ft. height of winter sun is secured. Warm, sunny shelter always obtainable in centre of town. Locally Headwinds S.W. winds, and disperse much rain, harmlessness of soil being promoted by its proximity of chalk. More sunshine recorded than in any other place in England for two years following, 1906 and 1907, and nearly fast in 1908 and 1909. (Sunshine, 1,904 hrs. in 1909.)

Eastbourne is situated on the coast between Brighton and Hastings, on the eastern slopes of Beach Road, which rises 550 feet above the sea and shelters the town. Eastbourne has developed, under the fostering influence of the Devonshire and Gilbert families into a fashionable watering-place (select but not dull), a residential town (within one and a half hours from London by express train), and an important educational centre. The sea-front extends for a distance of three miles, without a single shop to mar the grand effect. A marine drive between the houses on the piers and the promenade is arranged at three levels, with garden terraces laid out with florid designs.

Eastbourne consists of a big central area and three suburbs—western, northern, and eastern. The Central area is level and contains the railway station and post office in Talmage Road, the town hall and the free library in Grove Road (both fine buildings) also the principal hotels, boarding establishments, apartment houses and shops.

The Western suburb, Meads, is a residential district, high above sea level. Compton Place, the residence of the Duke of Devonshire, is here, also the famous Cricket Club. Most of the private schools are located here, which contain over 5,000 pupils, and specially contribute to Eastbourne's prosperity. Upperton, to the north, adjoins the old town, and contains Hampden Park, which is eighty-two acres of matured woodlands.

Open spaces and a multitude of leafy gardens conduce to the healthiness of Eastbourne, many streets are lined with trees, nearly 9,000 of these sun-protectors being under the charge of the enterprising Corporation, which maintains a service of motor omnibuses, and was the first public body to adopt the electric light.

During the last five years there have been altogether 9,040 hours or bright sunshine, giving an annual average of 1,808 hours and 5 minutes, and a daily average of almost exactly 5 hours. A lively seaport, a fighting station, and important fishing centre, Ramsgate occupies a position in between Deal and Broadstairs, sheltered against the north and east winds. ## SEAFORD (Sussex).

Population 4,300. A beautiful Sussex seaside resort Seaford lies 53 miles from London (L.B. & S.C. Rly.) in a hollow in the South Downs, not far from the mouth of the Ouse and Newhaven. On the Sussex coast 53 miles from London between Brighton and Littlebourne, L.B. & S.C. Rly. Climate of Seaford is equable but bracing for south coast health resort. Never very cold in winter and summer heat always tempered by cool sea breeze so that hottest days in summer are not relaxing. It is a rare eminently suitable to invalides. The air has a true tonic effect on sick patients and produces a really marvellous improvement in a short time. The climate is dry, rainfall being small and owing to chalky sub-soil quickly absorbed. There is a large amount of sunshine enjoyed and nothing to mar it. There are no high hills to the west to cut off the evening light and in the winter the sun sets in the ocean. The prevailing winds are south and west. From the north and east winds the town is considerably protected by high downs. The death rate has always been remarkably low, and the great age to which many inhabitants live is quite proverbial.

Recreations—Golf, two clubs each with gentlemen's links (18 holes) and ladies' course, rowing and sailing boats, gull net-fishing and freshwater fishing.

EDUCATIONAL SUPPLEMENT.

CONTINENTAL SECTION.

From enquiries which have been made it has been ascertained that the scope and utility of the Educational Supplement would be greatly increased as a medium for facilitating the selection of a suitable school by the inclusion of a section for schools on the Continent.

A large number of English-speaking people send their children to the Continent for education and it must be of utility to many readers to have a separate section relating to schools on the Continent.

In order to make the Continental Section of practical use to readers of the Peacemaker the proprietors are particularly desirous that it should constitute a reliable guide to Educational Establishments of the best class.

With this object in view all applications for the Continental Section must be first recommended by Messrs GABBITAS, THIRING & Co, 36, Sackville Street, London.

PURCHASES—The Society purchases Reversions and Remainders, whether absolute or contingent, Life Interests, whether in possession or deferred, and generally all Interests (in approved property) that depend upon the duration of human life

LOANS—The Society also grants Loans on the security of such interests, either on Ordinary Mortgage or by way of Reversionary Charge. The latter mode meets the convenience of borrowers who do not wish to make any payment for either principal or interest until their Reversionary Property falls into possession. The amount to which the Society will then be entitled is fixed at the outset, and does not depend on the time elapsing between the grant of the Loan and its repayment. The option of redeeming the Charge during the first three or five years can usually be combined with this form of Loan

Forms of proposal and full information can be obtained at the Society's Office
